Guides for authors

The Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities is a semiannual publication published by the University of Mohamed Boudiaf, which aims to publish studies and original and innovative research (not from Master's degrees, PhD or other), and which has not been published elsewhere. In the social sciences and humanities field, it also aims to encourage professors, students and researchers to engage in scientific research and production, which supports the progress of the University and its role.

In the Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities, we seek to publish all the good articles in the three languages (Arabic French English) that we receive from university professors, PhD students and researchers from recognized research institutes. These articles are considered positive in the following disciplines: Psychology Education, Sociology, Information and Communication Sciences, History, Philosophy, Forensic Sciences and all articles that directly serve the humanities and social sciences, such as political science and urban technology management, physics and sports ... and other related disciplines.

The Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities is a former magazine whose publication process began in 2011. It has the experience of four editors who have sought to develop the magazine and expand its network of experts representing today 11 countries and 22 universities and distributors specialized in the magazine in proportion to their composition. The work that has been entrusted to them is evaluated thoroughly.

In the Journal of Social Sciences and Humanity, we believe in the abilities of researchers and value their efforts very effectively when we direct research to specialized reviewers in proportion to the nature of the article. The reports are decisive for accepting or rejecting the article and we use a third reviewer in the case of two different reports of the same article.

The Social and Human Sciences Journal welcomes the efforts of all serious researchers and prepares them for fair arbitration and regular publication.

1. Presentation of articles:

Submitting articles via the ASJP are very simple and organized so that publishers can follow the process step by step. If you wish to publish in our magazine, visit our ASJP portal at the following address:

<https://www.asjp.cerist.dz/en/PresentationRevue/394>

When you enter the link above, you will need:

1. Press the "Enter" button in the principal menu. If you are registered on the portal, simply enter your email address and password, then - Login - to access the portal (01-02).

b. If this is your first visit, you can press the "Save" button (03) and fill in the necessary fields, then obtain the password that you can change later ...

2 - You can access the magazine account again on the portal

<https://www.asjp.cerist.dz/en/PresentationRevue/394>

Once the submission process is easy enough, just click the Send Item icon on the left side of the screen in the platform link.

• Note that registration and entry are required to submit articles online and check the status of your manuscripts. The template can be downloaded in English, Arabic or French from the magazine's website by clicking on "Instructions for authors" to the right of the magazine.

2 - Guide for the author:

Only articles corresponding to the guidelines of the journal are accepted. The publisher may refuse research articles that do not comply with the publication rules and ethics of the journal.

3. Article evaluation process:

1.3 The editorial team of the journal conducts a preliminary evaluation of each manuscript submitted based on a set of criteria including knowledge, relevance, appropriate language, relevance to the readers of the journal and its relevance to the areas of the journal.

If the manuscript is rejected, the publisher will inform the author of the editorial team's decision via status by sending a message. The author can republish his document after having corrected it and subjected to the conditions of publication.

2.3 If the article accepts the evaluation, it will be sent to an associate editor who will send it to expert reviewers. The articles are sent to the reviewers confidentially in encrypted form and they must commit to a specific deadline of 20 days, which will remind them of another 10 days. Submit their reports according to a standard schedule to the editor through the Statute.

4. Status of article evaluation:

Auditors are required to disclose potential conflicts of interest that may affect the outcome of the arbitration and review process. The auditors receive an evaluation form available on the platform which defines the criteria of arbitration for the authenticity of the article, the method of analysis and data, the clarity of the results, the discussion, the referral and the documentation. The reviewer's report should include general comments sent to the publisher, and general and specific comments are sent to the author (s). In the case of two different reports on the same search, a third evaluation may be requested by a different reviewer.

5 Preparation of the article:

To avoid rejection, we invite authors to use the magazine template. The Authors form is available in the Author Instructions file and you are invited to use it as a template. It can be downloaded from "Instructions to Authors" on the magazine's webpage.

<https://www.asjp.cerist.dz/en/PresentationRevue/394>

6. Details of the publication of the article:

By clicking on the "Author's Guide", a compressed file containing the publication rights and publication requirements of the journal that explains to the authors that publication and intellectual property are the exclusive property of the journal.

-7 Send the article:

Authors are requested to submit the appropriate articles for publication and conform to the template before submitting their article via this link:

<https://www.asjp.cerist.dz/en/PresentationRevue/394>

Authors are required to complete the required information before submitting their articles (article language, title, abstract, and keywords, full name of the author, affiliation, email, two other authors and propose two reviewers).

8. Notice of receipt of the article:

If the article submission process is successfully completed, the researcher will receive an ASJP "article submission notice" by email, and the second author will be notified by email as confirmation of the co-author and the second author must confirm the partnership or refuse it under the pretext of silence as implicit satisfaction.

9. Notice of rejection of the article:

If it turns out that the article has not respected the magazine's model and the conditions of publication, the author will be informed of the rejection of the article.

-10 Track the article on the platform:

The author must log regularly to track the status of the article on the platform by clicking on the "Articles" icons, then "Items sent". A table appears showing the details of the article from: Title; Publication date; Title of the journal and other details related to the article.

A process is followed to track the status of the item in several steps: see Figure (01) in the Appendix for more illustration.

- Phase I: accept or reject arbitration
- Phase II: an article awaiting arbitration
- Step 3: send the article to reviewers
- Step four: Reviewers decide to accept or reject or modify the article.

13. The editor reserves the right to modify accepted manuscripts that do not conform to scientific, technical, stylistic or regulatory criteria without modifying their content.

14. The editor is not obliged to return unacceptable articles.

15. If an article is found to be contrary to the Rules of Professional Conduct and Scientific Honesty, no subsequent articles of the author will be accepted and may be followed legally.

16. The opinions expressed in the journal are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the journal.
